

All the way down to the sea
May 13, 2008
Joel Akin

Numbers 34:12 And the border shall go down to Jordan, and the goings out of it shall be at the salt sea: this shall be your land with the coasts thereof round about.

What if the sea in this story is the ocean? If we are laying groundwork then we must weigh in on it. For if the way to the sea is of giant hills then it can work around. However what if there were giant hills called mountains filling what is now the Dead Sea?

If this is true then the way to the Dead was the way down. Only if the Dead Sea was deep then the mountains would have been partly stuck. This would mean they might only be hillocks when God carried them to Alberta. In fact if God had to pull up three hills then those would also be the size of mountains.

We assume that a single bit of life is caught in the spread. If there is an amoeba in this story it is the way to the sea. For if God had to move me to write someone then it was to pry loose a way. One in which they see a cycle.

The cycle is one. The page is two. If it turns out to be correct they might see it as a sight of time or a way to see. Now the sight of time is probably right but it should be sigh. I leave it as a way of describing what happened to the sea of salt.

In those days the Jordan went down to the sea. That was the Mediterranean. When it was held open for inspection there was found a way to break the old way. That was a river which went down to the Red and that Red is better then Dead.

Dead could be death but in the way of old they had to carry salt. Salt was called a way of healing. It really did heal yet it also went to the be in the li or lie of a moment.

Now the bay of pigs is a place soon to arise off the coast of Florida. It will be a way of rising out. That means cleaning it out of debris. There will also be a change in the temperature of that region to super and dooper cool only in the upper reaches of the stone faces of time. Thus the region below will turn into a super cooled stream of hot air. This will lay a ground work for a very unusual system which will kill off the pattern of sin. It will open a way for life to rise up and sing.

