Joel Akin

I just finished watching Ambush Bay which was a movie produced in 1966. It is the story of a group of Marines led by Hugh O'Brian and Mickey Rooney who are sent to find a person named Mia Saki. This person has secret information which is essential to the return of MacArthur and his invasion fleet back to the Philippines which has been under Japanese Occupation. The Radio man picked for the job is James Mitchum. He plays a neophyte marine who six months previously was selling shoes and is constantly stating his opinion on everyone and everything. They travel through the jungle encountering numerous patrols and are constantly losing men along the way. When they arrive at their first rendezvous they find that Mia is a Japanese Geisha girl aka Long Beach Civil Servant. They learn that the channel for the fleet is mined with new technology and it's a race to the bitter end to find a way to stop the mines and save the fleet.

One of the things I really liked about this movie is it spoke to me regarding my present circumstances. I've been in prayer for about three plus years now regarding the question of authority and anointing or power. As I have learned from God the question of Authority came because I spent many hours in prayer seeking Him out. As I did so I learned a secret, a great secret that I wanted to pass on to the people around me who needed it. But I couldn't make anyone seem to understand this desire to communicate what they already knew.

After all as Christians we all know that Jesus Christ is going to return. We all know how to pray. We all know how to 'fight' spiritually against powers and principalities with greater or lesser degrees. But there are times, as in Ambush Bay, when we are given knowledge that is a step more specific. And so it was in the movie. For James Mitchum who played the radio man he refused to stop bugging the head marines for information. They were known for keeping quiet and keeping thoughts to themselves. Suddenly here was a guy who really wanted to know and unlike others he wasn't content to know the generalities. He wanted to know the specifics. He wouldn't stop and in a way I guess I can see myself in him. And like him I learned that God wanted to return to earth but there was a problem called it remained under the enemies authority. There were obstacles, mines in the channels where Sin dwelt and Sin wanted to blow up the ships. Sin was on the island and he ambushed every party who tried to obtain the secret information from the enemy.

So God sent me into the enemies camp, after I had the authority and gave me power by fighting my way to the center of the island where the vital information was being kept. Once I had that knowledge then God shared with me that I needed to help fight the spiritual powers that had hindered him from coming to earth to reestablish his spiritual headquarters. Now you might think that a foolish thing because God is God. But Earth, the cosmos, Time, and pretty much all of Creation had been under the authority of Sin and the power of Sin. God was kept at bay by these enemy forces. This meant when angels or others wanted to come in to convey a message they had to have someone on earth pray through so they could break through.

Now you'll agree to this because its scriptural. But then you'll say what about Jesus? All right. Jesus was like McCarthur. He came to set up an outpost on earth. A rock. Now there was no other place in the Philippines quite like Corregidor. It became the Rock from which McCarthur issued his orders and kept the Japanese at Bay. But eventually the Japanese broke through and put the Rock under quarantine. They put the authority back into their hands and McCarthur had to flee. But he promised to return.

Now Jesus left the church under Peter's authority. Peter was called to protect the church as best he could but lets be honest.

He was just a man against forces that were beyond his comprehension. He fought to the end and others fought to the end but none of them received the promise of Jesus's return. In many ways it, the church, the world, has remained under occupation, under quarantine. You might disagree but that is your prerogative. Now we know that we are given messages and we are given abilities and we are given knowledge which people have fought for. One is the Bible. The other is the Gift of the Holy Spirit. These are tools and weapons which we are meant to use in this battle of occupation.

Now when I came into this war I didn't see it as a war. Now listen to me because you will see yourself in this story. I was hurting, in pain, suffering with sickness and disease. After all there were many during the World War II occupation by the Japanese on various islands who suffered greatly with these things. Most blamed the enemy for their trouble. Yet we don't see it quite that way. Though we pray and seek God we don't always see Truth as clearly as we should. We blame the devil and Satan and spiritual forces all the while pretending that they don't exist. Now that sounds strange but I believe I speak the truth here. I fought against these sufferings day and night for years but I did not know that these were spiritual attacks that kept increasing for one reason. I was hungry for the things of God. And the greater I grew in knowledge the greater those attacks grew. Until finally I began to notice that the spiritual warriors I knew were falling by the wayside. We were in the midst of a battle and I was just along for the painful ride. I was just a walking Joe and I could not see that the battle was real.

Christians seemed to be blinded to this battle. I couldn't find many who wanted to admit that a battle was taking place. The church had cast out Hope for Faith, there was a radical spirit loose in the church that allowed people to Sin as they wished but people seemed unconcerned. After all Grace covered us and we were protected. But none of us knew that the pain was real and were casting our Sin unto Christ without a concern as to any affect it might be having in the spiritual. It was a terrible example for the Church. Now I am not saying He, Jesus, isn't strong enough to bear it, though sometimes I do think of what is to come for us believers, but I know that He hasn't returned as we know it.

I couldn't understand why? After all if we were so strong in faith and so strong in building churches and so strong at fighting the enemy why was every Christian out there acting so confused?

Well, like the Radio man James Mitchum played I kept asking questions and I kept seeking answers and I kept wondering what in the world was going on. It made no sense to me. In a dream I was given two pathways. On one road it lead to a type of burning bush. On the other I saw Satan and a couple of his buddies. There was no where to hide and I was afraid of both pathways. Afterwards I asked God "Give me courage to face up to Satan and his friends and give me courage to face up to you father." Now that may sound like a really strange dream but it spoke to me. When the Radioman in Ambush Bay reached their target and it seemed it was now time to relay information back to McCarthur of the ambush waiting for their return. They were suddenly caught in an unexpected fire fight with the Japanese and the radio was destroyed. There was no way to relay this critical information.

This is what happened to me. I found myself without a means to communicate what I knew with God. I had been cut off spiritually so that I could no longer hear the Lord speak. You can imagine for a long time I was in a panic. I didn't know what to do. It affected everything in my life and in my families life.

In a dream God sent Wisdom and Wisdom became the source of communication. Though I could not see her clearly she was meant to relay information to heaven for me. I didn't know this and I didn't know that she was meant to play a role in this battle in the midst of enemy territory. Wisdom spoke to me and told me that I was to keep my shoes on. That they represented Jesus Christ. And that at the end of this story I would understand how 'shoes' fit into the overall story.

I didn't understand this shoe business. After all I had the concept that when I confronted the burning bush I was to take off my shoes. That speaks of the path to Holiness. But in the New Testament Jesus indicated the only time we remove our sandals, besides perhaps foot washing, is to brush the dust off our feet when we are not accepted. In other words they were part of our tool in the journey.

And that is what amazed me about this story I watched today because at the end of the movie James Mitchum helped destroy the enemy weapons and was the only survivor. He had to use enemy radio equipment to radio in his position to the fleet and then he went down to the sea with his weapon and himself waiting for pickup.

Sometimes God has a way of showing things that are so amazing it is enough to send chills down our spine.

So listen carefully. There are times that the war that started off with a great multitude of Marines and fighting men comes down to one lone man who makes it through ALL the strongholds of the enemy, helps trigger all their defenses, and is there waiting for the man who promised "I shall return." And he thought of himself as the least man on the totem pole and the one without the knowledge to impress anyone he met except perhaps in the area of communications.

Now you can life and you can mock and you can tell me I'm crazy but I am that man.

And not only am I that man but I am now waiting by the sea, just as God showed me, waiting for the return of Jesus Christ and the saints. Now I don't have all the specifics as yet. I don't know the exact hour of pickup. I don't know when I shall see the fleet come in. I just know that it is coming and is on the way. I also know that God has arrived spiritually already and He told me that He had been like a kid because He was able to pick up projects that He has not been able to work on for thousands of years. There is a major development in the Spiritual also that God has set Creation aright and it will begin to show soon on earth. These things are happening in the air as we speak. This means that God will set up a new kingdom on earth in a few years and perhaps even sooner. This new kingdom will never die.

Now some of you are skeptical because Jesus said he would return for us in the air. He will. The air is the body of Christ and the body of Christ is in the air. We who are alive and remain are already being transformed day by day. We are in the world of the living but the world of the dead, not Gods realm, but a realm close to us, is being moved. We shall soon see signs of this in an upcoming article.

Now I've been fighting this battle for a long time. I've been in prayer and the enemy, Sin and his friends, are in the habit of interfering with communications. They have the ability to send out pain, suffering, loneliness, and so on through what will call flesh channels. When you feel those things rebuke Sin in the name of Jesus. You will find that he will vanish and flee.

Now if you are concerned about the return of Jesus remember there are mysteries here which are yet to be revealed. There are fights still taking place in spiritual realms and in those realms are other links to other realms. The angelic warriors are even now fighting against foes. These foes are dark spirits who have no concern for the things of God.

There are battles happening here on Earth. You will see that once these battles in the spiritual are mopped up there will be changes here on earth. These changes will come and they will change the face of everything on earth and I mean everything.

Now I realize its not easy to communicate because I have to walk by faith. Faith is like stepping forward in Hope without letting the fear guide you away from the path. Sometimes those communications tend to break down when we let up on the light. It just happens.

Now the fight can continue on our end. You are in it. You don't have to be just a watcher. Start praying because if you pray you will find that God hears and despite the lateness of this battle is pleased with prayer. Much better to pray now then when you see the fleet coming in. Then it will be a matter of mopping up.

Now if this battle is being won in the spiritual then why should there be things, like Revelation, which speaks of things like the Antichrist? To be honest those are battles of heart and body. The fight going on now is over the soul. It is the body which is the natural man. Now you've been in this spiritual fight as people of earth. Every man has suffered under Sin. The problem is Sin is only part of the war. There are still fights beyond that out there. Like wars within war. People have their own agenda's and so it is in the spiritual. Just when you've fought one foe another group rises up, just like in the natural, and they proclaim themselves as spiritual in authority though not in power.

So if you want to see this story continue then write me. I will keep writing it but there are things I know I could share if anyone really wanted to know about the return of Jesus Christ. Until next time. God bless to all and with love
