

If men had a day with God
October 14, 2008
Joel Akin

Genesis 3:5 For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

If we eat of the fruit we eat on a day. A day is the day of God but we use that as a simpletons way to life. All because if we used up our life we also used up our line and that would be an edo for the edict.

An edict is a word out of Eden and it means "Forbidden" or "Broken" and "Broken" is a word which speaks of brother and ken. Bro being what we might have if the word for life might be ken and ken might be a word for tall and good with looking close by.

For example, a looking glass means to spy and if you had a spy they would hold up the glass. Thus a spy would know that between us and the ken would be a dark or faint tale of life. Thus we would be in the well of a dark and faint or vile name for men to speak about it so.

In the ship Enterprise when they travel to the planet of Edo they have to be faint and minded for "God" is the one who is the God for the people of Edo. Edo is Japanese and it can speak of food. Edo means to take and to dine or die and if you can find die on it then you had better beam down their children. Thus if God had a way it would be to show us the future by showing us the past. If Edo was of E Dew Then E would be of Electronic Dew and that would adjust the ambient way of life on earth. The planet earth would be the Dine of Worlds and it would be the Sea of Change in it if the way of Sin were to have his way. Thus when the Dew falls so falls the Do and since men were wise they ate of the fruit from the tree and the fruit never falls far from the tree.

We fell as men and since God knew it he found us on the world we call Earth. Earth had been the source of eternal misery because it was a world filled with E and E was the bit of Din which copied everything that God had made.

In other words if we were people of the stars then people of earth were a race of those who had an Edo of their own. They would be under a system of honor to hide and to hide meant to keep their profile low. However, it would be, if I may, that God wants the people of Ja and Pan to appear again. For they were people of Ja and thus the people of Edo or Eden. When they fell from the moon they came to us by way of the sea. They, people of the sea, were the people of the world we call Mer.

