The picture above is of the earth and you may notice small boxes that go in a circle all around the center. These are earthquakes over the last week or two. Its called the Ring of Fire. Seismologists indicate they are alarmed but they think its just coincidence they are all hitting at once. I do know in my dream there was a great earthquake and the great white tower fell as it had no foundation. According to the Dream the tower stood within a large circle in the middle of grasslands.

Now I've always thought it might be terrorist but sometimes God gives you literal insight into what is coming. A great earthquake which will shake the world leading to a massive economic collapse. And I do know in a future dream Japan is covered by darkness because of massive volcanoes which destroy the nation yet raise up a new land mass. Is it symbolic or literal? The ring of fire covers every major nation except Africa, the Middle East, Europe and so on. Such a massive quake, if it were to happen, could leave Europe and the Middle East as the New Power centers. Of course things never usually happen the way we think. In this case the middle of the circle is just ocean.
