

The Shiny Starship

October 27, 2004

Dream Narrations

Joel Akin

I was with some friends on this railroad track. For some reason we were not worried about getting run over. It was night time and we lay back to look at the stars. Overhead were lots of stars but also lots of jets flying by, but so high you could barely make them out. And then above them began to parade huge aircraft, like floating aircraft carriers and other craft of a hundred different shapes and sizes. They were all silver/greyish in the evening sky and none of them made any noise. And then above those was the most massive structure I had ever seen. It was shaped like a massive cigar except one end was wider than the other. It also was silver/greyish except it was so high in the sky that the sun still glittered on the aircraft that flew in and out of the many holes/openings that were cut out throughout the structure. And it was so huge that at least 300 aircraft were parked in those open slots and you each one was like a tiny bead of bright glittering gold. Towards the thick end of the structure there was a large cone and out of it would fly a steady stream of aircraft which then flew off in all directions. Though I didn't know what we were looking at some said it was a STOAS. Solar Transport orbiting aerospace station. In size it was huge. An average width of one kilometer and a length of 10 kilometers. I remember underneath the structure was this huge lettering UFAG. It signified United Forces American Group we believed.

We decided to visit this military base and I was talking to this black guy about home brewed iced tea. We actually had some at the cafeteria and then ended up in this discussion with some of the men. I brought up the huge ship and wondered if it was real or what. A lieutenant said, "Yeah, we've wondered the same thing. Some think its a hologram used to scare the enemy into submission." A higher ranking officer interrupted and said, "Lieutenant, your talking about classified things. I must insist you cease."

He continued speculating with me until the other man threatened him with court martial and the dream ended.